LUMOS MAXIMA

Date:- 13 September 2024.

By:- Niehu Thulu-o
Asst General Secretary
SUPCC

'Lumos Maxima' is a performing arts program initiated by the Students' Union Patkai Christian College under the supervision of the Dean of Students. This was the first of its kind in Patkai and the program was first held on 23rd August 2024, under the theme, "Light and Truth". Ma'am Louise Shishak Teacher of Patkai Higher Secondary school and adjunct member of MSSM, was the Special Guest. The program was opened by the Cultural and Literary Secretary, Mr. Sadangmong Chang, and the President, Ms. Limayala Aier gave an introduction to this new event. The program was filled with songs, dances, laughter, drama and cheers. It was a grand success with a lot of students showcasing their talents, skills and creativity. The drama club of the college took part in this extravaganza as well. It was well received by the students with approximately 800 students attending the program which added to its success. This program was initiated by the Students' Union with the goal to give platform to the students to show their skills and talents without the sense of competition and just pure opportunity for showcasing their talents and skills. Lumos Maxima will be held once every month.

Date	13 September, 2024 Time- 1:30 PM onwards 14 September , 2024 Time- 10:30 AM onwards
Venue	Mass Communication Studio
Organised by	Department of Mass Communication
Participated by	Day 1: 26 students, 3 teachers Day 2: 25 students, 3 teachers
Objective	To provide industrial training on developing news sense and gather knowledge on fundamental rules for developing and writing news stories. To enable the students to understand emerging trends in journalism and look for varied perspectives within a routine event. To give students the knowledge of well composed photographs for news reports. To make students capable of asking journalistic questions.
Outcome	The two-day master class helped the students acquire journalistic skills in report writing. It guided the students to immerse in the practise of asking questions. As a practical component of the paper; print media and journalism, the students are assigned to draft press releases of the college activities and write letter to the editor. The masterclass gave students the necessary training to be able to outline their reporting and write press releases for different kinds of events. The students were trained to come up with compelling news headlines and photo story. The students have significantly learned the ways to find sources for the news story.

Name of the Activity	Golden Jubilee Seminar
Date	23rd of September, 2024
Venue	Bundrock Chapel-Auditorium
Organised by	Students' Union Patkai Christian College (SUPCC)
Participated by	Students and Faculties
Objective	The objective of this seminar was to inspire students to integrate their Christian faith with academic pursuits, fostering a well-rounded perspective that values both spiritual growth and intellectual excellence.
Outcome	The seminar held on September 23rd, 2024 led by Rev. Dr. Wati Aier, highlighted the issue of passivity among the Nagas, describing it as a “culture of silence.” He emphasised the importance of fostering a critical and analytical approach in education, rather than merely reproducing what teachers instruct.

Name of the Activity	One Day Seminar Seminar on “A World Without Ethics: A Critical Examination”
Date	5 th October 2024
Venue	Conference Room
Organised by	Dept of English
Participated by	190 students

The Department of English organised a One Day Seminar on the theme “A World Without Ethics: A Critical Examination” with Professor Xavier P.Mao, Professor and Head, Department of Philosophy NEHU as the resource person on 5th October, 2024.

The Resource person highlighted the crucial role of ethics in society stating that without ethics, trust and relationship disappears. He elaborated that spirituality means caring and respecting all human beings, and explained that ethics is the framework by which we make sense of right and wrong, justice and injustice. He further cautioned, without ethics life would lack trust and purpose.

Name of the Activity	Talk on “ Studying Political Science from the Outside of Political Science ”
Date	06th October 2024
Venue	Conference Hall, Patkai Christian College
Organised by	Department of Political Science
Participated by	Students of MA 1st Semester, and MA 3rd Semester and others. (A total of more than 60 students participated in the event.)
Objective	The objective of the talk was to introduce students to alternative perspectives in the study of Political Science by highlighting the importance of interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary approaches. The session aimed to broaden students’ academic outlook by encouraging them to engage with other disciplines such as anthropology and sociology, thereby enriching their understanding of political phenomena and improving their research and writing skills.
Outcome	The talk was delivered by Roderick Wijunamai, PhD Scholar at Cornell University, USA, who provided valuable insights into studying Political Science beyond its traditional boundaries. He emphasized the need for integrating knowledge from multiple disciplines to develop a more comprehensive and nuanced understanding of political issues. Drawing examples from anthropology and sociology, the speaker illustrated how interdisciplinary approaches can enhance research methodologies, critical thinking, and academic writing in Political Science. The session was highly engaging and intellectually stimulating, prompting students to rethink conventional approaches to the discipline. The programme witnessed active participation from students, who benefited from the exposure to global academic practices and innovative research perspectives. Overall, the talk was a grand success, contributing meaningfully to the academic enrichment of the postgraduate students.

Resonating Stories: 4th Patkai Campus Film Festival goes Beyond Lights, Camera & Action

President of the Film Association of Nagaland Yapangnaro Longkumer addresses the inaugural day of the 3-day Campus Film Festival 4.0 organised by the Department of Mass Communication, Patkai Christian College (Autonomous) on October 28.

NAGALAND 29th October 2024

Morung Express News Patkai | October 28

The collaborative nature of filmmaking and the importance of a story in driving a film forward were underscored as the 4th edition of the 3-day Campus Film Festival premiered today at the Bundrock Chapel Auditorium, Patkai Christian College (PCC) Autonomous.

In celebration of the college's 50th anniversary, the festival organised by the Department of Mass Communication is marked as the Golden Jubilee edition 4.0, and held under the theme "Beyond Lights, Camera, Action: Resonating Stories."

Speaking at the inaugural event, Guest of Honour and President of the Film Association of Nagaland (FAN), Yapangnaro Longkumer, noted that today's students possess greater skills and access to diverse platforms and storytelling methods.

She highlighted the importance of story in filmmaking, stating that while lights, camera, and action are essential, the crux of any film is its story.

"It is the story that propels you to make a film. It is the story that takes you forward," she remarked.

Engaging the audience in a mental exercise, she noted that while a setting or frame may be similar, varying interpretations bring diverse stories to life.

Longkumer also described how a concept transforms from narration to a written script and ultimately into a film, emphasising the hard work involved in filmmaking.

She shared an anecdote about Laapataa Ladies, recently chosen as India's official entry to the Oscars for Best International Feature, to underscore the collaborative aspects of filmmaking.

The film's original writer, Biplab Goswami, who was a colleague of hers, conceptualised the story in 2018. His script won second place in a national screenwriting competition, where actor and producer Aamir Khan, a jury member, showed interest in adapting it and wanted his then-wife, Kiran Rao, to direct.

However, Goswami initially intended to direct the project himself and sought producers independently, yet faced challenges as a new director in securing funding.

Ultimately, he returned to collaborate with Khan, who came on board as a producer. Though he eventually had to entrust the direction to another, this collaboration has brought him significant recognition, as he now moves towards the Oscars and receives multiple writing offers, Longkumer noted.

Thus, she stressed the collaborative nature of filmmaking, explaining that while someone may write a story, it often requires another director who may be more suited to bring it to life.

Market forces, especially funding, frequently influence these decisions. “This is what happens in filmmaking,” she said. “It’s a collaborative effort.”

To this end, Longkumer expressed her delight in seeing students and faculty working together over the years to successfully organise the festival, and she wished the current edition every success.

Giving a curtain-raiser, Wan-o Nangmung Yanlem, who along with Yomge Jilen are the festival directors, shared that since its inception in 2018, the festival has become an annual college event.

She noted that the festival serves as a platform “where small and even big filmmakers showcase their talents, where stories transcend boundaries, and where the magic of films brings us closer.”

Each film screened, Yanlem noted, reflects a unique perspective, with this year’s selection resonating with the theme “Lights, Camera, Action: Resonating Stories.”

She invited everyone to immerse themselves in the art of filmmaking and be inspired by the work of directors, writers, actors, and technical teams who have poured their heart and soul into each frame.

Earlier, Patkai Principal Dr Thepfüvilie Pierü commended the Department of Mass Communication for organising the festival through teamwork for the fourth time.

Quoting John C Maxwell, he highlighted teamwork principles like the Law of Significance, the Law of the Big Picture, the Law of the Catalyst, and the Law of Bad Apple.

Meanwhile, PCC Dean of Social Sciences, Neilevono Vupru, announced the winners of the short film contest organised to mark Patkai’s Golden Jubilee, followed by a screening of the winning film.

The entries included submissions from across India.

The short film contest winner was Who, directed by Verte Nuh, with Aditya Modal’s Redacted receiving the first consolation prize.

Two second consolation prizes were awarded to Kasadaru, directed by Ravichandran, and The Weight of Silence, directed by The Tetso Drama Club.

In addition to a diverse line-up of local, national, and international films, the festival includes a special screening for children on October 29.

Apex Motors, Hunky Dory, NICSE, and The King Chilli are the festival’s main sponsors, while The Morung Express and We the Nagas serve as print and digital partners, respectively.

Overview of the Workshop

The session begins with words of appreciation from the college Principal Dr. Thepfüvilie Pieru. He thanked the resource person Dr. Mechuselie Kehie for his presence and congratulated Dr. Kensibo Pamai and his team for organizing such kind of workshop in the college. He also acknowledges the DBT for the funds provided towards the development of the science students and the college in general.

Abstract of the Technical Session -I: How to write a good research proposal.

Research is a systematic process of gathering, analysing, and interpreting data to create new knowledge or use existing knowledge in new ways. Research is basically categorised into four categories i. Basics ii. Applied iii. Descriptive iv. Analytical Research. Research proposal writing is crucial to secure a research project. A research proposal is a structured document that outlines what you plan to research, why it is important, and how you will accomplish it. The purpose of research proposal is to convince readers that your project is significant, feasible, and worth funding or support. The core elements of a research proposal generally include; title, abstract, introduction, literature review, objectives, methodology, significance of the study, expected outcome, timeline, budget, references/bibliography.

Abstract of the Technical Session -II: How to secure research funding

The importance of research funding is for advancement of knowledge, enhancing research capabilities, economic and societal benefits. Some of the steps to apply for research funding are;

1. Identify the Appropriate Funding Agency: Choose a funding body aligned with your research area.
2. Understand the Guidelines: Study the eligibility criteria, funding amount, duration, and focus areas
3. Prepare Your Proposal
4. Submit Online Application: Use portals like the DST and DBT portals for online submission.
5. Follow Up: Track the status of your application after submission.

There are several funding sources hence it's important to Identify potential funders such as Government Agencies, Private Sector Funding, Non-Profit Organizations and Foundations. There are several types of Grants such as research grant, international grant, infrastructure grant, fellowship grant, seminar workshop grants etc.

Date	20 January 2025
Venue	Conference Hall
Organised by	Department of History
Participated by	History Department students (72)
Objective	To explore questions about history and memory, archives and visual evidence through an examination of Reverend Samuel Perrine’s written and photographic records on the Naga Hills.
Outcome	The talk delivered by Prof Geraldine Forbes centred on the life of an American Baptist Missionary, Reverend Samuel Perrine, who worked among the Nagas in the late 19 th and early 20 th century. Focusing attention on the photographs taken by Perrine, Prof Forbes highlighted how the same photographs were utilized by Perrine to tell different stories and create different imageries of the Nagas at different points of time in Perrine’s career, first as a missionary in the Naga Hills and later as a public lecturer in the United States. Students who attended the talk learnt that the records produced by the missionaries in the form of reports, letters and photographs, are not merely sources for history but can also have a history of their own, thus pointing to the need for contextualization. These insights were particularly relevant to the VI semester students who have a course on the History of Christianity in North East India.

Outcome	Students gained insights on various stages of video production. As a result of the workshop, the students produced three short films.

Head of Department

A week-long workshop on Photography and Visual Storytelling was organized by the Department of Mass Communication as part of its academic curriculum. The workshop aimed to enable students to develop essential skills in photography and storytelling through visual media.

The session was conducted by Mr. Anish Ansari, a Freelance Videographer, who served as the resource person for the program. With his professional expertise, he guided students through the practical and creative aspects of visual storytelling.

The primary objective of the workshop was to equip students with hands-on experience in filmmaking and editing. Throughout the week, participants were introduced to various stages of video production, including concept development, scripting, shooting techniques, and post-production editing.

Students gained valuable insights into framing, composition, camera handling, lighting, and narrative building, which are crucial elements in producing compelling visual content. The workshop emphasized the importance of storytelling techniques in effectively communicating ideas through the visual medium.

As a result of the intensive training and practical sessions, students successfully collaborated to produce three short films by the end of the workshop.

Report on National Science Day, 28th February 2025

The Science community of Patkai Christian College (Autonomous) on the occasion of National Science Day organized a one-day celebration on "Empowering Indian Youth for Global Leadership in Science and Innovation for VIKSIT BHARAT" on February 28 at Bundrock Auditorium, with Prof. L. Daiho, Dean, School of Agricultural Sciences, Nagaland University, Medziphema as the guest of honour. He urged students to cultivate resilience, scientific temper, and perseverance, reminding them that innovation often results from persistence and learning from setbacks. He also reminded the students how to use plastic products in a scientific recycling manner as these are so harmful to our health and causing environmental pollution. The second session featured academic competitions aimed at fostering scientific thinking and creativity. Students participated enthusiastically in quizzes extempore speech and poster presentation representing departments such as Chemistry, Mathematics, Physics, Geology, Botany, Zoology, and Computer Science.

National Science Day 2025 at Patkai Christian College served as an inspiring platform for students to deepen their engagement with science, acknowledge the vital role of women in technological advancement, and reaffirm their dedication to building a scientifically empowered society.

At the end of the second session there were case prize distribution of the first, second and third positions in all the three categories of competition. The celebration ended on an optimistic note, emphasizing the ongoing importance of knowledge, innovation, and perseverance.

ACTIVITY DETAILS FORM

Name of the Activity	Workshop on the topic “Sensitization on common diseases among children”.
Date	06 th March 2025
Venue	Classroom Hall no. 04
Organised by	Department of Education in collaboration with Community Health Nursing Department, College of Nursing, CIHSR.
Participated by	UG Education honours and VAC (Value Added Course) students (66 students and 4 faculties).
Objective	Sensitizing students on common diseases among children.
Outcome	Ms. Neiketounuo Medom, the resource person for the event highlighted the major causes of child mortality. She further provided insights into the prevention of six prevalent diseases for children: Tuberculosis, Poliomyelitis, Diphtheria, Pertussis, Tetanus, and Measles. She explained how these diseases spread, the prevention methods, and available treatments. Following her session, Akum Toshi, her colleague, spoke on immunisation and the various vaccines used to combat these diseases. To enhance understanding, the resource persons distributed vaccine samples to the students. An interactive quiz session was conducted on QUIZZZ.com, where 73 students participated, each answering 10 questions related to the day's topic.

March 8, 2025 – Musical Evening with Dr Taras Filenko

The Music Department of Patkai Christian College, MSSM, in collaboration with North East Christian University, organized a Musical Evening with Dr. Taras Filenko, a noted pianist and lecturer in Ukrainian history, on 8 March 2025.

The programme comprised a lecture-recital in which Dr. Filenko performed a selection of lesser-known Ukrainian piano works while providing insightful commentary on their historical and cultural origins. His presentation offered the audience a deeper understanding of the development of Ukrainian music and its unique artistic identity.

The event was attended by students and faculty members from Patkai Christian College, as well as participants from other institutions, reflecting a broad academic and cultural interest in the programme.

NECU
THE NORTH EAST CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY
is pleased to invite you to meet with Dr. Taras Filenko a noted Pianist & Ukrainian History Lecturer at several events that he will be sharing his experience and expertise in.

Name of the Activity	Workshop on Event Management
Date	10 March, 2025, 2:30 PM onwards
Venue	Mass Communication Studio
Organised by	Department of Mass Communication
Participated by	B Mass Comm 1 st , and 2 nd year and 1 st years students taking up Event Management as Value Added Course. Total: 35 students
Objective	To equip the students with event management skills. The workshop is aimed at helping students learn conceptualisation and execution technique paramount in the field of event management. The workshop focused on teaching the students different stages of production in event management.
Outcome	The students towards the end of the workshop learned the importance of professionalism in the field. They also gained knowledge on the scope of the field in the state of Nagaland. With the resource person’s involvement in the Nagaland Super League and other events, participants gained a first-hand understanding of how professional events are conceptualized, planned, and executed. Through real-world examples, students learned the importance of structured planning, time management, budgeting, and team coordination in transforming a simple idea into a large-scale event. The workshop not only broadened their perspective but also sparked interest in pursuing careers in the field of event planning and management.

In an effort to explore the potential of event management in Nagaland and equip students with essential skills, the Department of Mass Communication, Patkai Christian College (PCC) hosted a workshop on 'Event Management: Conceptualization to Execution' on March 10. The session was conducted by Khakhuli Chishi, Social Media Coordinator at Kaki Marketing, who is also an alumna of PCC Mass Communication Department. Chishi shared reflections on her experiences working with diverse clients and meeting their expectations at Kaki Marketing currently the marketing and media partner of the ongoing Nagaland Super League. She provided students with practical strategies for promoting events, covering key aspects such as poster design, layout planning, and video promotions tailored to attract clients and ensure successful execution.

Name of the Activity	Activity Report on the Observation of the International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination Organized by the Department of Political Science, Patkai Christian College
Date	21st March 2025
Venue	Bundrock Chapel-Auditorium
Organised by	Department of Political Science, Patkai Christian College
Participated by	374 Students and 7 Faculty members. Students of BA II, IV (A & B), and VI (A & B) Semesters, MA II and IV Semesters, Faculty members of the Department of Political Science
Objective	The primary objective of the commemoration was to: -Create awareness among students and the academic community about the continuing global challenge of racial discrimination. -Encourage critical reflection on the values enshrined in the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination (ICERD) . -Provide a platform for creative expressions through performing arts to engage with the theme and promote inclusivity, peace, and justice.
Outcome	The program proved to be highly engaging and educational. It achieved its objective of raising awareness about racial discrimination and the importance of standing up for human rights and dignity. Students gained a deeper understanding of the ICERD and its relevance in today's world. Through skits and music, the message of inclusion and justice was powerfully conveyed, fostering a collective commitment to a world free of racial prejudice. The event also strengthened collaboration and creativity among students, enhancing their sense of social responsibility and global citizenship.

Report on the Observation of the International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination

Organized by the Department of Political Science, Patkai Christian College

The Department of Political Science, Patkai Christian College, observed the International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination on 21st March 2025 with the theme: “The 60th Anniversary of the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination (ICERD).” The event was held at the Bundrock Chapel-Auditorium, aiming to raise awareness and reflect on the global efforts to eliminate all forms of racial discrimination.

Objective of the Commemoration

The primary objective of the commemoration was to:

1. Create awareness among students and the academic community about the continuing global challenge of racial discrimination.
2. Encourage critical reflection on the values enshrined in the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination (ICERD).
3. Provide a platform for creative expressions through performing arts to engage with the theme and promote inclusivity, peace, and justice.

The inaugural session was chaired by Dr. Zhoto Tunyi (HoD), with an opening prayer led by Dr. Renchumi K. Kuotsu. A special song was presented by the Male Voice group of BA 6th Semester, coordinated by the class representatives. This was followed by an insightful address on the theme by Ms. Chibeni Patton, setting the tone for the rest of the program.

The second session included two major competitions: Skit/Drama Competition. The skit/drama competition revolved around the theme of ICERD and featured performances from all the semesters. After a spirited and engaging competition, the combined team of MA II and MA IV Semesters emerged as the winners.

Following, the Group Song Competition saw Participating groups presenting the iconic song “Heal the World” by Michael Jackson. The competition saw participation from all semesters. The BA II Semester students were declared the winners for their soulful and moving rendition.

The event not only highlighted the significance of racial equality and justice but also encouraged students to reflect on and creatively express their understanding of the values enshrined in the ICERD. The Department successfully created a platform for learning, expression, and solidarity in the fight against racial discrimination.

Objective	To enable the students in capitalising on their creative skills using exhibition as a platform to showcase their talent. The exhibition was organized as part of the Skill Enhancement Course offered by the Department of Mass Communication, with the objective to equip students with practical skills in professional photography and visual storytelling. It also trained students in taking pictures but also introduced them to marketing and presenting their work in a professional setting. Through this students gained exposure to create visual content, and build a creative portfolio.
Outcome	Students gained insights on engaging themselves with crowd with an experience to organise exhibition, from selecting photographs to setting up the event. The exhibition also allowed the students to showcase their best work publicly. The exhibition build confidence in the students and trained them to be able to work under pressure and deadline.

PATKAI, 24 March: The 1st and 2nd-year students of Patkai Christian College's (Autonomous) department of mass communication hosted the 4th edition of their annual photography exhibition on March 24. Themed "Framing Elements and Beyond," the exhibition was officially inaugurated by Neilevono Vupru, dean of social sciences, PCC (A). The event took place at the National Service Scheme Park, Patkai, starting at 10 AM, and attracted attendees, including faculty members, students, and visitors from outside the college. In her inaugural speech, Vupru praised the students for their creativity, emphasizing that appreciating art and supporting such events signifies a step forward in the development of humanity's higher ideals.

She encouraged students to continue their artistic pursuits and uphold such initiatives in the future. The exhibition featured 48 stunning photographs, showcasing the talents of the 1st and 2nd-year mass communication students.

In alignment with the theme, visitors had the opportunity to engage with the photographers themselves, who guided them through the display and offered insights into the stories behind their work.

One of the event directors, Surotsa Anar, elaborated on the theme, saying, "There is beauty in everything around us, so we wanted to frame all these things and also let people know about this beauty and appreciate it."

The students collaborated with the photography club Dimapur to bring the exhibition to life, receiving support, including Patio Coffee Eatery, Spicy Corner, Nikamel, TreatMor, Fingerprint, November Sky, Dermato Aesthetic, and the department's alumna, Khakhuli Chishi.

Notably, all 48 photographs exhibited at the event were purchased by patrons and visitors, highlighting the appreciation and demand for the students' work. The exhibition, held annually, forms a key part of the skill enhancement course within the department of mass communication, offering students a platform to showcase their talents while gaining invaluable real-world experience.

Workshop on

Legume Diversity, its nutritional value and conservation in Nagaland

Technical session I

Theme: Exploring the diversity of legumes and its nutritional value

During the first technical session, resource person Dr. Aolemla Pongener, highlighted the importance of legumes and presented a brief background history on how legumes are found globally consisting of the total number of species and genera. She has also emphasized, based on her survey, how the edible legumes add to our dietary and economic values. Out of the many districts she has surveyed during her post-doctoral studies, she has also delightfully shared in her presentation the six districts of Nagaland she has explored and the most commonly found edible legumes. Some of the edible legumes studied were Cajanus cajan, Phaseolus vulgaris, Dolichos lablab, Canavalia gladiata, Vigna mungo, Vigna unguiculata, Mucuna pruriens, Psophocarpus tetragonolobus, Vicia faba, and Glycine max. Additionally, she has accentuated the nutritional importance of the legumes and how well they are known for their protein content. Out of the 10 species studied, she mentioned that Psophocarpus tetragonolobus had the highest moisture content, followed by Phaseolus vulgaris with high protein content and Mucuna pruriens with high antioxidant activity. She has also briefed on the importance of germplasm as they offer relatively simple, cost-effective, and space efficient way to preserve genetic diversity and displayed some pictures of edible legume seeds or pulses.

At the end of the session she concluded that legumes, being a highly nutritious food managing health conditions, there is a need for more exploration and conservation of the edible legumes and encouraged the participants to work and explore more in this area of research.

Technical session II

Theme: Understanding plant research: An introduction to methods and techniques for conservation.

To understand why plant research matters, our resource person has supplemented with the introduction and methods on how to conserve plants and shared cost-effective tissue culture technique, as an approach for plant conservation. She explained the facilities and techniques required for the plant tissue culture research. Taking everything into account, she stressed on how important the sterilization step is, as contamination is one of the worst enemies of the plant tissue in a sterile laboratory. Dr. Aolemla has also displayed some photos of orchid tissue and the steps on how they were developed into a complete plant with the presence of roots and leaves. Intriguingly, she also revealed that during her research, she came up with a more cost-effective substrata or raw materials to replace the gelling agent known as the agar used for plant tissue culture, which is a very expensive substrata. Some of the raw materials include foam, coconut coir, betel nut coir, leaf litter, saw dust, paddy straw, and sugarcane bagasse. She has also mentioned that 37% of the cost can be minimized, which is a good alternative in today's generation.

At the end of the session, she concluded the need for more plant conservation, especially the endangered or threatened species through plant tissue culture technique and encouraged the students to research more on this area and come up with more ideas and techniques.

Report of Awareness Programme on Electronic Waste Organized by Eco Club, Patkai Christian College (Autonomous)

On the occasion of Earth Day, 22nd April 2025, the Eco Club organized an awareness programme focused on Electronic Waste management. The event aimed to educate students and the community about the environmental and health hazards associated with improper disposal of electronic waste and to promote responsible recycling practices. To enhance the reach and impact of the programme the e-Circle, a well known environmental group was invited to participate and collaborate. Their active involvement brought additional insights and strengthened the message of sustainable technology use.

The programme featured Ms. Soweteu K. Letro as the resource person to enlighten the students on electronic waste management. In her address, Ms. Letro shed light on the growing issue of e-waste explaining its sources, toxic effects and the urgent need for sustainable disposal methods. She also highlighted that students and institutions can contribute to e-waste management through collection and disposing off to a common collection point which would be collected and later on sent for recycling plants.

80 students attended the program.

A talk on Research Fundamentals: Developing Skills from Analytical Reading to Fieldwork was organised on 24th April at Bundrock Chapel Auditorium, by the Department of English. The Resource person was Dr. Moalemba Jamir, Adjunct faculty, Department of MASS Communication. The talk focused on foundational concepts and processes of academic research, with the intent of guiding learners from every day information seeking habits to structured scholarly inquiry. It emphasised on distinctions between informal and formal research, the role of objectivity and subjectivity and the importance of literature review in mapping existing knowledge. The session also covered primary and secondary data, various research methods and techniques.

Audience: Students of BA II, IV (A & B), VI (A & B) Semesters, MA II and IV Semesters, and Faculty Members of the Department

Objective of the Lecture

The objective of the lecture was to deepen the understanding of India-China relations in the context of the evolving global and regional order. With the world experiencing profound transformations—marked by power shifts, strategic realignments, and new geopolitical complexities—the lecture aimed to equip students and scholars with critical insights into how these changes impact one of Asia's most significant bilateral relationships.

Overview of the Lecture

Professor G.V.C. Naidu, a distinguished scholar with extensive expertise in Indo-Pacific studies, delivered an insightful lecture on the dynamic evolution of India-China relations against the backdrop of global power transitions. He outlined:

- The historical context of India-China ties, highlighting peaceful coexistence over two millennia until tensions began after 1949 with the communist victory in China, followed by the 1962 war.
- The transformation of the global order, including the rise and relative decline of great powers, with China's economic and technological growth challenging U.S. dominance.
- The complexities following the 2020 Galwan Valley incident and the subsequent diplomatic attempts to stabilize bilateral relations.
- Strategic compulsions influencing both nations: China's economic slowdown and search for new markets, and India's pursuit of technology, investments, and integration into East Asian value chains.
- The emerging Indo-Pacific regional architecture where Indian and Chinese interests both converge and clash.

Professor Naidu emphasized that understanding these historical, economic, and geopolitical currents is essential to forecasting the future trajectory of India-China relations.

Outcomes

- Students and faculty gained an enriched understanding of the historical and contemporary dynamics between India and China.
- The lecture stimulated awareness of how global shifts, including China's rise and the Indo-Pacific's strategic realignments, influence bilateral relations.
- The session enhanced critical thinking about India's foreign policy options and strategic approaches to China amid shifting regional and global orders.
- Meaningful interactions and discussions followed the lecture, fostering academic curiosity and deeper engagement with international political studies.

The Department looks forward to hosting more such distinguished lectures to foster academic excellence and critical engagement among students.

May 18, 2025 – Annual Spring Concert

The Annual Spring Concert of the Department was conducted on 18 May 2025 at the college auditorium, with an audience of over 400 attendees. The event brought together students, faculty, and members of the wider community for an evening of musical presentations.

The programme was designed to reflect the ongoing academic and performance activities of the department. It included ensemble and solo performances across different formats, such as choir, instrumental groups, and individual recitals, offering a varied and engaging musical experience.

The concert featured performances by both faculty and students, underscoring the interactive and practice-oriented approach of the department's music programme. The event not only provided a platform for performance but also contributed to strengthening community engagement and appreciation for music beyond the classroom setting.
