Date	06 September 2025
Venue	Conference Hall, Patkai Christian College (Autonomous)
Organised by	Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), Patkai Christian College (Autonomous)
Participated by	Faculty members of Patkai Christian College (Autonomous)
Objective	The primary objective of the Faculty Development Programme was to enhance the pedagogical competencies and professional ethics of faculty members. The workshop aimed to equip teachers with effective lesson planning strategies, improve skills in question paper setting and evaluation, and foster a deeper understanding of professional ethics. Additionally, the programme sought to address emerging challenges in the teaching profession, particularly teacher burnout in the evolving educational landscape.
Outcome	The Faculty Development Programme was successfully conducted with active participation from faculty members. The workshop was structured into four sessions covering key aspects of teaching and professional development. The morning session was led by Dr. M. Rajendra Nath Babu, Associate Professor, Department of Education, Nagaland University. In the first session on lesson planning, he emphasized the importance of structured and outcome-based teaching approaches, aligning with contemporary educational standards. The second session focused on question paper preparation and evaluation techniques, where he highlighted the need for clarity, fairness, and alignment with learning outcomes in assessment practices. The afternoon session was conducted by Prof. Lungsang Zeliang, Professor and Head, Department of Education, Nagaland University. The third session on developing professional ethics of teachers underscored the values of integrity, responsibility, and commitment essential to the teaching profession. The final session addressed teacher burnout, where the resource person discussed the challenges faced by educators in a rapidly changing academic

Date	11 th Sept, 2025
Venue	WITI, Seithekema
Organised by	Directorate of Employment, Skill Development & Entrepreneurship (DoESDE), Government of Nagaland
Participated by	BCom/BA students (62 students)
Objective	The workshop was conducted as an initiative to create awareness and a registration drive on the National Apprenticeship Promotion Scheme (PM-NAPS) by the Directorate of Employment, Skill Development & Entrepreneurship (DoESDE), Government of Nagaland, Kohima to familiarize students with the objectives, benefits, and procedures of the apprenticeship program. The initiative aimed to bridge the gap between academic learning and practical skill application by encouraging students to register on the apprenticeship portal.
Outcome	A total of 70 students, along with the faculty members of the Department of Commerce, attended the program. The awareness and registration drive on the Apprenticeship Portal (PM-NAPS) proved to be highly beneficial for students. It not only enhanced their understanding of the scheme but also encouraged them to register and explore opportunities for professional growth. Such initiatives play a vital role in strengthening the employability of students and aligning them with the vision of a skilled India.

Name of the Activity	A talk on “Understanding the Process of Repatriating Naga Ancestral Remains”
Date	12 September 2025
Venue	MSSM Building, Room no. 103
Organised by	Department of History
Participated by	UG I III V Semesters students and faculties (126)
Objective	To create a platform of dialogue with members of the RRaD (Recover Restore and Decolonise) who are engaged in the ongoing process of repatriating Naga ancestral remains from Pitt Rivers Museum, University of Oxford
Outcome	Students learned the basics of the repatriation process from the members of the RRaD team. Some of the questions and issues that were discussed during the talk included: the historical context in which Naga ancestral remains were collected by colonial administrators, the collective trauma experienced by the Nagas under colonialism, the objectives of the repatriation process, and how repatriation is connected to the wider process of decolonisation, healing, and reconciliation. Students learned the importance of reestablishing links and pathways to memories and the importance of taking ownership of their own histories.

Patkai Christian College holds dialogue on repatriating Naga ancestral remains CHÜMOUKEDIMA, SEPTEMBER 14 (MEN): The Department of History, Patkai Christian College (autonomous) on September 12 organised an interactive dialogue on “Understanding the Process of Repatriating Naga Ancestral Remains”. The session sought to explore and understand the ongoing process of repatriating Naga ancestral human remains from the Pitt Rivers Museum (PRM), University of Oxford, and featured members of the Forum for Naga Reconciliation (FNR) and the Recover Restore and Decolonise (RRaD) team.

The FNR-RRaD team comprised Rev. Dr. Eileen Koryak, Joint Coordinator, RRaD, Nipuni Piku, Dr. Akim Longchart and Sophe Joel Rungbung. The session was chaired by Dr. Thejalhoukho Casari, a faculty member in the History Department.

the Nagas to act as a people, rising above divisions in order to reclaim what rightfully belongs to them.” She also underscored repatriation as “a process towards healing and reconciliation” and, while stressing the importance of addressing intergenerational trauma, urged the need to understand “the ways in which contemporary challenges may mirror long histories of unresolved or unaddressed pain and suffering.”

Speaking on “Nagas yesterday, today and tomorrow,” Nipuni Piku outlined the historical trajectory of the Nagas from the pre-colonial to the post-colonial period. He called for deeper engagement with the concepts of human dignity, self-determination and indigenous peoples, contrasting these with the “contemporary incorporated subaltern status viz. as Scheduled Tribes (STs)” imposed on Nagas post-independent India. He observed that non-state nations and peoples like the Nagas were excluded from rights-forming processes such as exercising self-determination during decolonization, “at a time when there was no concrete established international instrument recognizing their legal personality under international law apart from the modern (Westphalian) state members who constituted the newly emerging majority members of the international order coming together under multilateral institutions like the United Nations.”

Piku noted that the post-decolonization period saw incremental recognition “in the form of International Convention ILO 107 (1957), ILO 169 (1989) and UNDRIP 2007 due to the continuing vulnerability of the indigenous peoples across the globe.” He highlighted how the denial of recognition of the Naga nation state resulted in “the misrepresentation through objectification of their being and commodification of their culture leading to the looting of cultural wealth and the exploitation of resources.” He linked the current repatriation process to “museum reforms policies across the world” and to the reassertion of authenticity in understanding and representing history “through creating critical consciousness and framing alternative indigenous narratives. Decolonisation, Healing and Reconciliation.”

Dr. Akim Longchart posed the question, “what happens to people when they lose their memories and do not have access to the past?” He emphasized that the production of colonial knowledge and the violence against indigenous knowledge were “crucial to the colonial project of domination.” Recalling the “Rhodes Must Fall” student-led movement which in 2015 tweeted that PRM is “one of the most violent spaces in Oxford,” he described museums as “contested spaces of power” which nonetheless “offer opportunities for redress where justice and healing are possibilities.” He said the repatriation process also implied “the decolonizing of knowledge where Nagas are makers of their own history and culture.”

Longchart noted that repatriation is “an interdisciplinary and a multi-layered process” and highlighted the “distinct character of the Naga approach where dialogue from within and consent of the community is shaping the direction of the process so that it is inclusive and grounded in the voices of the people.” He said it was this ongoing process of building a Naga consensus that informed his assertion that “repatriation is a means and not the end.”

The three speakers also engaged with students during a question-and-answer session. The rapporteurs for the event were Kili Kiba, Lily Shobe, Vitsamang and Aben Kikon, all 5th semester students in the History Department. The department also announced a new course titled “Decolonization, Repatriation, and Reconciliation,” a multidisciplinary course framed by its faculty and currently offered in the 3rd semester.

Name of the Activity	Lecture on Emerging Trends in Research Publication
Date	September 25 th 2025
Venue	Conference Hall
Organised by	Research Committee, PCC(A)
Participated by	Faculty members
Objective	To inculcate quality research and responsible publishing practices among the faculty members.
Outcome	The lecture was delivered by Prof. Dipak Sinha (FNESA, FRSC, DST-BOYSCAST Fellow), Pro-Vice Chancellor, School of Agricultural Science, Nagaland University, which was participated by 70 faculty members. Prof. Sinha highlighted the importance of quality research publications in the context of NAAC accreditation and NIRF ranking of Higher Education Institutes. also explained the method of calculating a journal's impact factor and illustrated how even a single, highly cited research paper can significantly enhance a journal's impact factor. At the same time, he cautioned researchers to remain vigilant against predatory and clone journals before submitting their manuscripts. It was highly informative, insightful, and encouraging, motivating the to pursue quality research activities and various ethics regarding journal publications.

ACTIVITY DETAILS FORM

Name of the Activity	INTER – DEPARTMENTAL TALK
Date	26 th SEPTEMBER 2025
Venue	BUNDROCK AUDITORIUM, PCC
Organised by	DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS AND DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Participated by	UG FINAL YEAR STUDENTS OF THE SCHOOLS OF SOCIAL SCIENCES, COMMERCE AND MASS COMMUNICATIONS
Objective	To equip students to be informed citizens and savvy participants in the modern, interconnected global economy by providing a foundational understanding of the four defining forces: consumer behavior, international policy, personal finance, and the impact of globalization on India.
Outcome	Students learnt that their everyday actions—from online consumer behavior to financial planning—are defined by larger forces like international tariffs and globalization. The talk provided the essential toolkit for financial literacy (budgeting, investing) to build personal security. The talk’s greatest impact was the realization that economic success in the modern world is not about luck; it's about literacy and informed action.

Name of the Activity	ACADEMIC TALK ON “CATEGORIES OF TRANSMISSION (CULTURAL MEMORY): A COMPARATIVE ANALYSIS OF ORAL TRADITION, LORE, FOLKLORE, AND ORAL NARRATIVES”
Date	6 TH November, 2025
Venue	Bundrock Hall, PCC
Organised by	Department of Economics in collaboration with Department of English
Participated by	UG Economics and English and PG English students (155)
Resource Person	Dr Resenmenla longchar, Assistant professor, ICFAI University Nagaland
Objective	To clarify the often-confused conceptual hierarchy among four key terms used to describe cultural memory and transmission: Oral Tradition, Oral Lore, Folklore, and Oral Narratives.
Outcome	Experienced greater cultural understanding, appreciate the importance of oral storytelling for preserving heritage and passing down values. Interactive activities encourage participation, critical thinking, and collaboration among students. By focusing on oral narratives, students became more connected to their cultural identity and learnt the value of experiential knowledge within their community.

Invocation: Mr. Baithang Debbarma

Welcome and Introductory Note: Dr. Zulusenla

Talk: Dr. Resenmenla Longchar, Assistant Professor, ICFAI University, Dimapur

Q & A: Session

Vote of Thanks: Mr. Chiten Longkumer

The Resource person emphasised on how Oral Tradition is established as the most comprehensive and foundational concept. It is defined as a method or a system by which a society transmits its entire cultural legacy, history, knowledge and values through the spoken word across generations. Existing in all societies, it functions as the collective memory of humanity and is structurally distinct from written texts, relying on interactive performance and being fluid and dynamic. Story tellers use mnemonic devices like rhyme and rhythm, acting as the index pages for vast materials.

Nagaland: Patkai hosts campus film festival 5.0

Nagaland Post

Chumoukedima, 23 Jan: Patkai Christian College's Department of Mass Communication inaugurated the fifth edition of the three-day Campus Film Festival 5.0 at the iconic Bundrock Chapel on January 22.

During the opening session, principal Thepfuvilie Pierü lauded the faculty and students of mass communication for their lively and creative decor that brightened the campus atmosphere. A press release stated that the inaugural was followed by a filmmaking and photography workshop presented by Sony, one of the festival's key collaborators. Sony C-Pro Specialist, Md. Noor Alam, led the first session, offering expert insights on camera technology. He covered essentials of photography and cinematography, exploring different cameras and lenses, and emphasized the importance of understanding the relationship between subject and background to create balanced and visually striking compositions.

The second session featured Sony Alpha Specialist, Saroj Kumar Dora who spoke on the endless journey of learning in the creative field. He described filmmaking as a beautiful, ongoing adventure and screened a travel video to illustrate the seamless blend of creativity and technical skill. The highlight of the second day will be a workshop on film production with filmmaker from Meghalaya, Tyrel Reuben Lyngdoh, as the resource person.

Later that evening, the festival showcased eight short films from filmmakers across the Northeast, bringing diverse stories to the screen.

Patkai Campus Film Festival draws curtain on storytelling, skills

The fifth edition of the three-day Campus Film Festival at Patkai Christian College (Autonomous) concluded on January 24.

NAGALAND 24th January 2026

Morung Express News

Patkai | January 24

The fifth edition of the three-day Campus Film Festival at Patkai Christian College (Autonomous) concluded on Saturday with activities extending beyond film screenings to the of storytelling, discipline and resilience, and honing skills.

Organised by the college's Department of Mass Communication, the premiere calendar event of the college featured a mix of international, national and regional films alongside student-directed works, drawing participation from filmmakers, students, faculty members and visitors from outside.

Over the course of the three days, a total of 24 films were showcased, with a special screening for children held on the second day.

As per the organiser, the focus of the 2026 edition was translating theory into practice, with workshops aimed at building filmmaking and photography skills on first day and a film production session on the final day.

The filmmaking and photography workshop was conducted by Md Noor Alam, Sony C-Pro Specialist, and Saroj Kumar Dora, Sony Alpha Specialist, providing students with hands-on exposure to the technical aspects of visual storytelling.

The film production workshop by filmmaker Tyrel Reuben Lyngdoh from Shillong on the final day dwelt on various aspects of the craft and the importance of telling stories rooted in local realities.

The Co-Founder and Creative Producer at The Hillspeople Collective Meghalaya also shared insights on career pathways as well as other aspects of the profession.

Following the workshop, the festival continued with film screenings, with a key highlight of the final day being the presentation of Inclination by director Smriti Prakash Boruah and her team, which was officially selected for the Egyptian American Film Festival (EAFF) 2025.

The festival concluded with campus-based activities and interactions, including activities at stalls set up at the venue.

The festival was presented by TVS and powered by Kaffa Cafe, in collaboration with SONY, with Bingebox as the associate partner. Toppers Academy was the education partner, while We The Nagas served as the digital media partner.

Other contributors included Kinimi School of Music, Spicy Corner, TMS Bakery, King Chilli, Boba House, Bud and Bloom, Fusion, as well as the PCC's BCA Department and the MA Political Science Department.

Name of the Activity	Workshop on Film Production
Date	24 January 2026
Venue	Bundrock Chapel Auditorium
Organised by	Department of Mass Communication
Participated by	53 students
Objective	To introduce students the filmmaking process and develop in them the practical skills required during the pre-production, production, and post-production stages of film production. The workshop is to help students learn planning, and manage film production.
Outcome	The students will be able to work on arranging and managing production logistics. Discharge individual roles and responsibilities in filmmaking and execute a short film or video project within given constraints

The film production workshop was conducted by Filmmaker Tyrel Reuben Lyngdoh from Shillong. Addressing students, he described cinema as a powerful medium through which regions preserve memory and identity, emphasising the need for filmmakers from the North East to tell their own stories rooted in local contexts and lived realities.

During the workshop, the Co-Founder and Creative Producer at The Hillspeople Collective also shared insights into the filmmaking process, outlining the journey from idea to screen through pre-production, production and post-production.

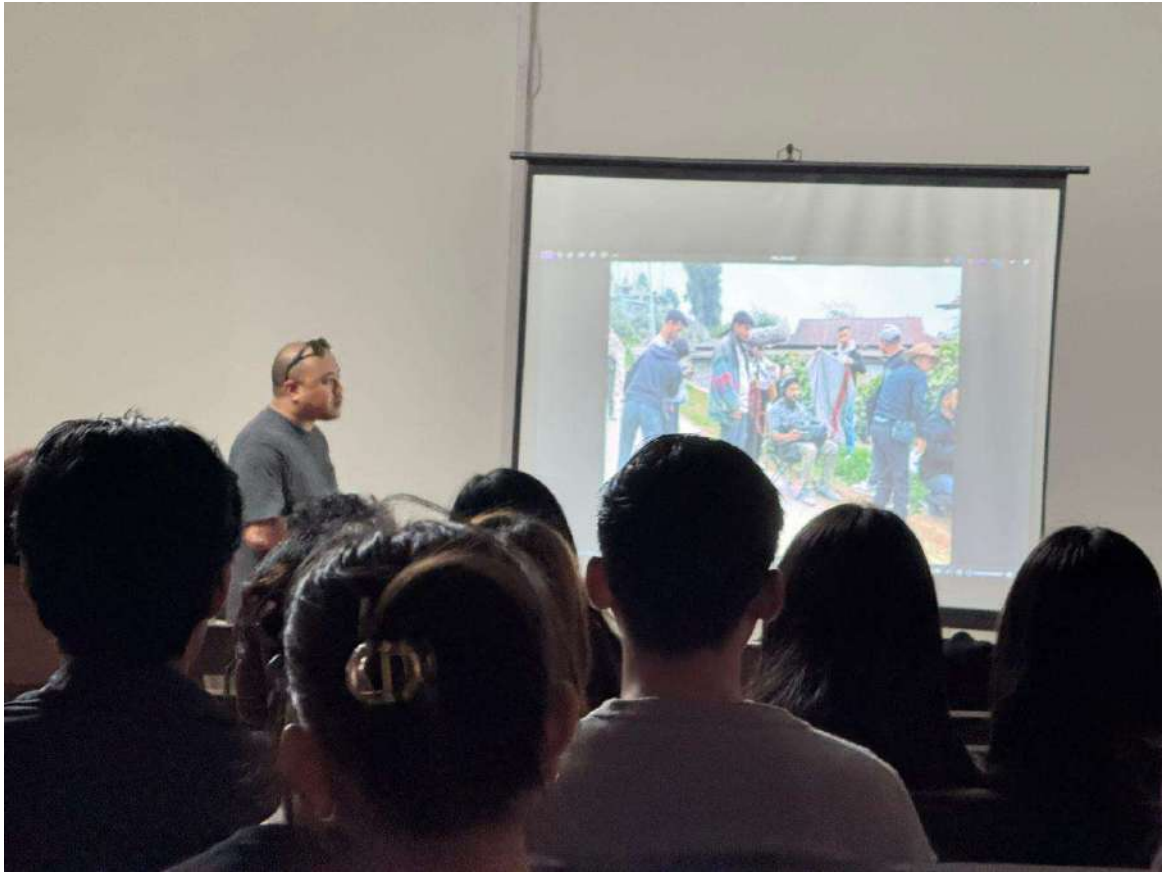

He further discussed the distinction between film, movies and cinema, highlighting cinema as both an art form and an industry. Stressing discipline over fleeting inspiration, he encouraged students to approach filmmaking as a collaborative and sustained practice, underscoring resilience through rejection, consistency and networking as essential elements in building a career.

Activity Related to Artificial Intelligence (AI)

Type of Activity: Faculty Development Programme (FDP)

Title of the Programme: Generative AI and Teaching–Learning Practices in Higher Education

Date: 29th January, 2026

Resource Person: Dr. Tiatemsu Longkumer, Senior Lecturer, Department of Anthropology
Royal Thimphu College, Bhutan

Objective of the Programme

The Faculty Development Programme was organised with the objective of familiarising faculty members with Generative Artificial Intelligence (AI) and its emerging role in teaching-learning practices in higher education. The programme aimed to build foundational understanding, promote pedagogically sound use of AI tools, and enhance faculty capacity in integrating AI into classroom instruction, assessment, and academic writing.

Brief Description of the Programme

The FDP focused on rethinking higher education in the age of Generative AI, with particular emphasis on how AI tools can support teaching, learning, and academic knowledge production. The resource person introduced faculty members to the basic working of Generative AI systems, including neural networks and transformer-based models, explaining their relevance for handling complex texts, contextual understanding, and faster learning processes.

The session highlighted different prompting strategies such as zero-shot, one-shot, and few-shot prompting, contextual and role-based prompting, step-back prompting, and multimodal prompting. These techniques were demonstrated through discipline-neutral academic examples to help faculty understand how AI outputs can be guided effectively for teaching and research purposes.

Special attention was given to prompt engineering and reasoning-based approaches, including Chain-of-Thought and Tree-of-Thought prompting, which encourage structured thinking and transparent reasoning. The discussion also addressed the impact of Generative AI on academic writing, focusing on issues of knowledge creation, evidence, authorship, and verification.

The FDP emphasised the importance of using AI as a pedagogical aid rather than a substitute for critical thinking, aligning AI usage with academic integrity, learner engagement, and outcome-based education. Faculty members were encouraged to adopt AI responsibly to make students' learning processes more visible, reflective, and collaborative.

Outcomes

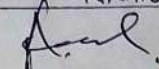

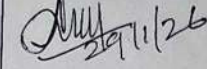

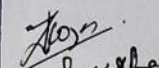

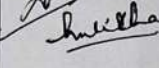

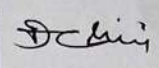

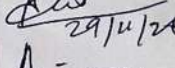

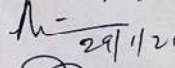

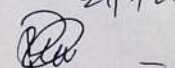

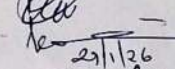

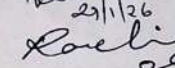

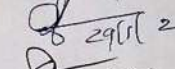

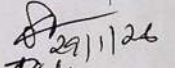

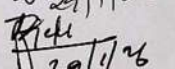

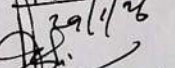

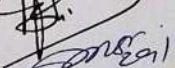

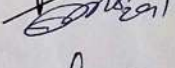

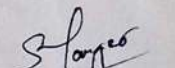

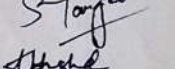

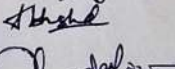

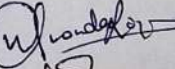

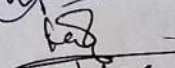

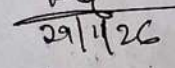

- Enhanced faculty awareness of Generative AI and its educational applications
- Improved understanding of AI use in teaching and assessment
- Strengthened institutional capacity for integrating AI into teaching-learning practices
- Alignment with quality enhancement and digital innovation initiatives in higher education

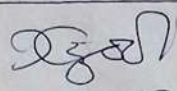

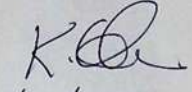

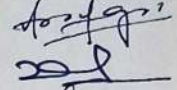

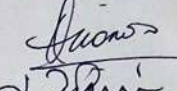

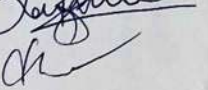

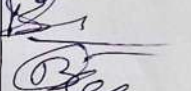

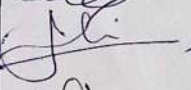

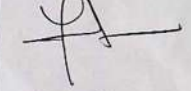

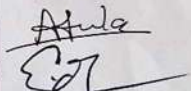

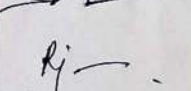

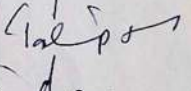

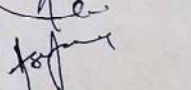

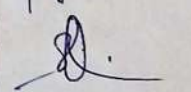

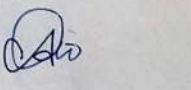

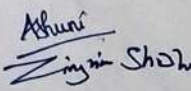

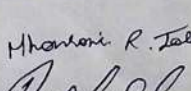

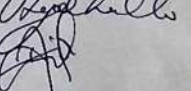

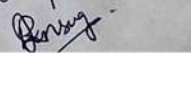

Conclusion

The FDP contributed to faculty capacity building and institutional preparedness for AI-enabled education. The programme reflects the college's commitment to adopting emerging technologies in a responsible and academically sound manner.

Mass Comm students showcase creativity at Patkai exhibition

NAGALAND

19th February 2026

Chümoukedima, February 19 (MExN): The Department of Mass Communication, Patkai Christian College, held its 5th Photography Exhibition on Thursday at the National Service Scheme (NSS) Park, New Campus, Patkai.

The exhibition, themed “Language of Colours in Silent Geometry,” forms part of the academic curriculum for second-semester BA Mass Communication students.

A total of 24 photographs exhibited during the event were sold, with 13 frames purchased within the first hour of the exhibition’s opening.

The event witnessed an impressive turnout, with over 300 faculty members, students and well-wishers formally registering their attendance.

Proceeds from the exhibition will be used to support the sixth edition of the 3-Day Campus Film Festival, scheduled to be held next year and to be organised by the same batch of the Mass Communication department.

Earlier in the day, Controller of Examinations (COE) Akangsenla inaugurated the exhibition and described it as a valuable platform for students to express their individuality and creativity.

“Photography is not just academic work but a true form of art and creative expression,” she said, adding that the event provided students an opportunity to share their unique vision and move beyond classroom learning.

The exhibition aimed to encourage appreciation of the world around us. Explaining the concept behind the theme, event manager and second-semester Mass Communication student Therali Kithan said that colours and structures carry unspoken truths and meanings.

An interactive session during the event allowed attendees to engage directly with the student artists, ask questions and gain deeper insights into the stories behind each photograph

Name of the Activity	DEPARTMENTAL TALK
Date	20 TH FEBRUARY 2026
Venue	CONFERENCE HALL, PCC
Organised by	DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS
Participated by	UG Economics students (37)
Objective	To enhance students' comprehension of banking operations, financial literacy, and their direct relevance to economics, including monetary policy, financial inclusion, and economic stability, thereby equipping them for real-world applications in public finance and development economics.
Outcome	Students gained practical insights into RBI policies, digital banking trends, and economic indicators like inflation and NPAs, fostering skills for informed financial decision-making and career readiness in accounting or economic analysis. Attendees can apply this knowledge to analyze how banking reforms drive economic growth, such as through credit expansion under varying employment conditions.

Name of the Activity	A Cello Experience - Cello Workshop
Date	Saturday 21 st February
Venue	MSSM
Organised by	Department of Music
Participated by	BMus Students 25 and Visiting guests from Dimapur Area 15
Objective	To promote the cello, develop string music in Nagaland, provide an opportunity to encourage and inspire both teachers and students especially String players to develop skills and knowledge.
Outcome	A successful exposure to cello, which will be developed further with future masterclass, other music workshops by Manab Naskar. It was wonderful to hear a professional cellist and educator share about music. It was enriching for our BMus program, and also brought together some of the music community at large. It is a beginning which will help further develop western music ensemble skills, and it provided a platform for cello teachers and students to connect.

Report on National Science Day, 28th February 2026

Chümoukedima, February 28, 2026: Patkai Christian College (Autonomous) celebrated National Science Day 2026 at the Bundrock Chapel on Saturday. Themed "Women in Science – Catalysing Viksit Bharat," the program aimed at honouring women's contributions to science and promoting scientific awareness among students. The event was graced by Supongnukshi Ao, Additional Principal Chief Conservator of Forest (Environment, Biodiversity & Research), Government of Nagaland, as the guest of honour. In his keynote address, Ao highlighted the crucial role of women in national development, research, and education. He added that India's growth relies on inclusive development and strategic planning. Drawing from his experience working with Japanese collaborators, he underscored the importance of discipline, patience, and a process-driven approach in scientific work. He urged students to cultivate resilience, scientific temper, and perseverance, reminding them that innovation often results from persistence and learning from setbacks.

The second session featured academic competitions aimed at fostering scientific thinking and creativity. Students participated enthusiastically in quizzes and extempore speeches representing departments such as Chemistry, Mathematics, Physics, Geology, Botany, Zoology, and Computer Science.

National Science Day 2026 at Patkai Christian College served as an inspiring platform for students to deepen their engagement with science, acknowledge the vital role of women in technological advancement, and reaffirm their dedication to building a scientifically empowered society.

The celebration ended on an optimistic note, emphasizing the ongoing importance of knowledge, innovation, and perseverance.

Name of the Activity	Tuisem Shishak Annual Lecture (TSAL) Topic “ The Trail and Trajectory of Naga Nationalism: Mapping the Way Forward ” By Rev. Dr. Wati Aier
Date	21 March 2026
Venue	Patkai Christian College, Bundrock Hall
Organised by	PCC and Alumnae
Participated by	Faculty, Staff, invitees and student of College and Higher Secondary School PCC
Objective	Lecture focused on understanding the “trail” (historical journey) and “trajectory” (direction and future path) of Naga nationalism, while proposing a constructive framework for moving forward.
Outcome	The lecture delivered offered a profound reflection on the historical evolution, present complexities, and future possibilities of Naga nationalism. As a leading theologian and peace advocate associated with the Forum for Naga Reconciliation (FNR), Rev. Dr. Wati Aier brought a unique perspective that integrates political analysis with moral and philosophical insights. His lecture focused on understanding the “trail” (historical journey) and “trajectory” (direction and future path) of Naga nationalism, while proposing a constructive framework for moving forward.

Name of the Activity	Interactive Session on Screenplay, Cinematography & Sound
Date	28th March 2026
Venue	Conference Hall, Patkai Christian College
Organised by	Department of Mass Communication
Participated by	30 students + 4 coordinators of the Resource person
Objective	The session aimed to expose students to real-world filmmaking practices by engaging industry professionals, while bridging the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical application in screenplay writing, cinematography, and sound design. It also sought to enhance creative thinking and storytelling skills, particularly in analyzing narratives and themes, provide career guidance and inspiration for aspiring media professionals, and highlight the collaborative nature of cinema by demonstrating how writers, directors, and sound designers work together.
Outcome	The session enabled students to develop a deeper understanding of filmmaking by integrating both creative and technical perspectives, including storytelling, emotional expression, cinematography, and sound design. It strengthened their ability to identify core themes and understand how films shape audience emotions, while also building awareness of industry realities such as creative differences and the director's role in maintaining a unified vision. Students recognized the significance of sound in enhancing emotional impact and gained inspiration from the speakers' experiences, encouraging dedication and creativity. Additionally, exposure to films like Nobody Knows and Little Miss Sunshine broadened their perspective on diverse storytelling styles and cinematic depth.

Name of the Activity	Career Counselling Camp
Date	11-04-2026
Venue	Dimapur Ao Baptist Church
Organised by	DABA Youth Ministry
Participated by	Margaret Shishak School of Music, Patkai Christian College
Objective	To orient DABA youths interested in pursuing music about the courses offered at Margaret Shishak School of Music, Patkai Christian College, and the career opportunities available after their studies.
Outcome	The career counselling camp was a good opportunity to guide DABA youths who were interested in music but had little knowledge about music studies and the discipline required. Representatives from the piano, guitar, voice, and violin departments interacted with the youths and guided them according to their interests. Brochures about the music courses offered at Margaret Shishak School of Music, Patkai Christian College were also distributed to students interested in pursuing music.

ABSTRACT

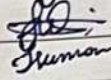

The oil crisis of the 1970s abruptly ended the dominance of Keynesian economic ideology, paving the way for the emergence of an alternative ideology as a global economic paradigm. For nearly three decades, this ideology was nurtured and meticulously developed on the margins of mainstream policy discourse. The crisis propelled it to become one of the dominant alternative reshaping economic governance across the world. This paper examines the origins of this ideology and how it gradually came to influence mainstream economic policy making. From the Mont Pelerin society to the Chicago Boys and their crucial role in transforming Chile's economic and political trajectory, the paper highlights Chile's experience as the first laboratory of this ideology's experimentation. This paper contends that this ideology was not only an economic and political project but also a cultural one. As the logic and rationality of the market came to influence every aspect of society, it extended into the realm of subjectivity, transforming and redefining the self.

Date	20 April 2026
Venue	Bundrock Chapel-Auditorium
Organised by	Department of Political Science
Types of games/activity participated	Students' Seminar Presentation
Number of students Participated	4 presenters, and participants from the classes of UG 4 th Semester, UG 6 th Semester, and PG
Outcome	The Department of Political Science conducted its first Students' Seminar on the theme Human Rights: Group Rights vis-a-vis individual Rights on 20 April 2026 at Bundrock Chapel-Auditorium. The papers were delivered by Lolo Lohe and Zhopokholu Nyekha (both UG 6th Semester), and Vevlu Khesho and Mughaholi Swu (both PG 4th Semester). The presenters delivered insightful and engaging papers delving on issues and debates around individual rights and group rights in the broader framework of Human Rights. The papers highlighted the complementarity of individual and group rights, when properly balanced. However, it also outlined the inherent tensions when group-based practices infringe upon individual freedoms, opening critical debates on the limits of cultural preservation and the primacy of human dignity. The event witnessed robust discussion from the audience on the papers presented, reflecting their interest and concern around the stated issues. The Seminar was chaired and moderated by Akumjungla Imsong, PG 2nd Semester, while Zozo L. Muri (UG 6th Semester) and Menchai I. Konyak (PG 2nd Semester) served as the rapporteurs of the papers presented. Certificate of Participation were handed to the paper presenters, the moderator and the rapporteurs.

Expert flags digital-era challenges to Naga languages at Patkai lecture

CHÜMOUKEDIMA, APRIL 30 (ME&N): The existential challenges facing Naga languages were highlighted during a talk on “Endangering the Endangered: Challenges for Naga Languages in the Digital Era” at Patkai Christian College on Wednesday.

The lecture, the fourth and final session of the Academic Engagement Series organised by the Patkai Reading and Writing Club, was delivered by Assistant Professor of English at the college, Talisunep Jamir.

Chairperson Linyolan Cecilia, in her remarks, expressed appreciation to attendees and said the club aims to create meaningful academic spaces for thoughtful engagement on important issues. She noted that the topic encouraged reflection on indigenous languages and identity in a rapidly changing digital world.

Moderator Kili Kiba introduced the theme, stating that the session would examine both historical and contemporary challenges faced by Naga languages, particularly in the context of social change and digital transformation.

In his address, Jamir explained the concept of language endangerment, noting that languages decline when they are no longer transmitted to younger generations or used in everyday communication. Referring to global trends, he said many languages are now spoken by only a small number of people, placing them at serious risk of extinction.

He said language endangerment may result from external forces such as military, economic, religious, cultural or educational subjugation, as well as internal factors, including a community's negative attitude towards its own language. Internal pressures, he added, are often rooted in external influences, and both disrupt intergenerational transmission of linguistic and cultural traditions.

In the Naga context, Jamir highlighted the impact of historical developments such as colonial education and the adoption of English as an disappearance reduces insights into human language, prehistory and ecosystems.

An interactive question-and-answer session followed, with participants raising concerns and sharing experiences. Responding to a query on language transmission, Jamir observed that younger generations are increasingly losing touch with their mother tongues, even within families, due to limited exposure and changing communication patterns.

Participants also discussed the role of parents, the influence of English as a status symbol, and the lack of learning resources for children in indigenous languages. Jamir said while parents play a key role, the issue is also linked to the absence of accessible materials such as children's books and digital content in Naga languages.

On language standardisation, he cautioned that such efforts may unintentionally marginalise smaller dialects, a process referred to in linguistics as “linguicide.” Addressing questions on digital tools, he said developing resources such as digital dictionaries would require institutional support, funding and collaboration.

He further noted that languages lacking digital presence face a significantly higher risk of decline as communication increasingly shifts to digital platforms.

Date	30 April, 2026
Venue	UGC Conference Hall
Organised by	DEPARTMENT OF JOURNALISM AND MASS COMMUNICATION
Number of students participated	52
Outcome	The masterclass enhanced students’ understanding of Artificial Intelligence (AI) and its growing significance in the media and education sectors. The session raised awareness of AI’s role in the evolving digital landscape and prompted students to consider their positions as media professionals in relation to emerging AI technologies. Participants were informed about the Government of India’s AI initiatives, including the Viksit Bharat 2047 vision and dedicated funding for AI development. The session underscored that AI requires effective human input and stressed the need for precise prompts to achieve optimal results. Additionally, students learned that AI generates outputs by utilizing data from existing online sources. In summary, the masterclass offered valuable insights into AI, its applications, opportunities, and challenges, particularly within media and education.

Name of the Activity	Interdepartmental talks
Date	3 rd May 2026
Venue	Bundrock Chapel
Organised by	Department of Mass Communication & Department of English
Participated by	24 students
Objective	To foster meaningful interdisciplinary academic engagement between the Departments of Mass Communication and English by creating a platform for critical dialogue on media, language, communication, and visual culture. The programme aimed to encourage analytical thinking, research-oriented learning, and intellectual exchange among students and faculty while enhancing awareness of contemporary media practices and communication dynamics.
Outcome	The programme successfully facilitated an enriching academic exchange that deepened participants' understanding of media narratives, digital communication, semiotics, and cinematographic language. Through scholarly paper presentations and interactive discussions, students strengthened their critical thinking, research, and presentation skills while gaining interdisciplinary perspectives on contemporary communication studies. The event also promoted collaborative learning and reinforced the importance of sensitive, meaningful interdepartmental engagement in advancing academic discourse.

Grace C. Ezung (B.A. VI Semester, Mass Communication) discussed “Cinematographic Language in Constructing Diegetic Logic and Meaning-Making.”

Joy Arücho (B.A. VI Semester, Mass Communication) spoke on “Marketing Communication in the Digital Era.”
